MOSCOW ANNOUNCES ARMY 34 MILES FROM BERLIN

BY W. W. HERCHER
London, Thursday, Feb. 22 (P)—The Soviet First Ukraine army, driving to the junction of the Neisse and Oder Rivers 54 miles southeast of Berlin, bypassed the stubborn German stronghold of Guben yesterday while the First White Russian army was reported pressing a great battle for encirclement of Frankfurt, 21 miles farther north.

In East Prussia the Russians acknowledged some advances by the Germans trying to reach the port of Pillau, but at a cost of 60 enemy tanks in a day.

Moscow's nightly communique indicated that the First Ukraine forces of Marshal Ivan S. Konev had made little progress in the struggle through the forest eight miles east of Guben, but announced capture of 50 populated places north and south of that point in advances of seven to 13 miles on a fiery 50-mile-long front.

Oder River Crossed
Places taken included Kuschern, on the Neisse at its confluence with the Oder, and the city of Pforten, 10 miles south of Guben and six miles northeast of Forst. The city stronghold of Preibus, and the town of Leippa, both on the Neisse's east bank, 23 and 27 miles southeast of Guben, also were captured.

Moscow was officially silent concerning operations of the First White Russian forces of Marshal G. K. Zhukov directly east of Berlin, but Pravda, official Communist party paper, asserted the Red army now stood but 34 miles from the German capital, and the German radio announced that Zhukov had "temporarily" slashed communications between Berlin and Frankfurt, on the west bank of the Oder 38 miles from Berlin.

Pravda did not specify the location, but the shortest distance from Berlin yet given by the Russians indicated that Zhukov had crossed the Oder, a development which the Germans long have conceded but which Moscow never has announced.

German War Reporter Hans Amitz broadcast that the roads and railway between Berlin and Frankfurt had been reopened, but added that a great battle for encirclement of Frankfurt was in progress and that the inhabitants had fled the shell-torn city.

The Second White Russian army of Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky meanwhile continued its steady drive northward through the Polish corridor towards Danzig, now 33 miles away, and was honored by an order of the day from Premier Stalin announcing capture of Czersk, 45 miles southwest of Danzig.

Danzig In Danger
The Soviet communique announced that Rokossovsky also took 40 other towns in the Polish corridor, the northern-most being Peshkorfelde.

With Danzig thus endangered, the Germans penned on the Samland peninsula in East Prussia west of Koenigsberg made a desperate effort to break out to the port of Pillau, 20 miles south, before their entrapment was further solidified.

The Germans on Samland apparently were hoping to make a "Dunkirk" escape from Pillau.

President and Wife Expected To Visit France This Spring

BY JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Paris, Feb. 21 (P)—President Roosevelt hopes to make a ceremonious visit to France in the late spring or early summer, it was learned today as the French minister of information announced that Gen. De Gaulle had been unable to meet the president at Algiers because De Gaulle lacked information on the Yalta conference.

The minister, Pierre Teitgen, told a press conference that a meeting between Roosevelt and De Gaulle at Algiers would have entailed "grave decisions on essential matters engaging the nation's future" which the French leader was unprepared to make but which he might have made had Roosevelt come to Paris.

The announcement of Roosevelt's plan to come to France and probably to visit England on the same trip, came from the United States embassy as Ambassador Jefferson Caffery returned from a meeting with the president near Algiers.

French envoys to London and Washington also have reported that they have received details of the Yalta conference which they are forwarding to Paris.

The embassy seemed inclined today to put the unfortunate incident of the failure of the Algiers meeting in its "dead" file and concentrate on preparations for the president's visit. There were hints that Mrs. Roosevelt was expected to accompany the president on the visit scheduled tentatively for some time after the United Nations conference at San Francisco, which opens April 25.

It was suggested in some quarters that the president's second trip abroad this year might also include a visit to the Vatican.

SIX SENTENCED IN CIRCUS FIRE

Ringling Officials Get Stays To Permit Big Show Opening

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 21 (P)—Six key men of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., were sentenced to prison or jail today for their responsibility in the big fire which took the lives of 168 persons last July 6. The sentences of all but one were immediately stayed to permit the show to open this year.

The charge against them was involuntary manslaughter to which they had pleaded no contest. The five who were granted stays were James A. Haley, vice-president and director who received a 1 to 5 year prison sentence, George W. Smith, 51, general manager, and Leonard S. Aylesworth, 52, who received sentences of 2 to 7 years in prison each and Edward R. Versteeg, 44, chief electrician and William Caley, 35, chief scoutman, one year in jail each, and David W. Blanchfield, 57, chief truckman, was sentenced to six months in jail and did not ask to stay. He started to serve his sentence immediately.

The five granted stays were ordered to present themselves before Superior Court Judge William J. Shea here on April 6, two days after the circus is scheduled to open for the season in Madison Square Garden.

Mayor Of Detroit Checks On Kelly's Financial Claims

Lansing, Feb. 21 (P)—Ben J. Tobin, auditor general of Detroit, and two certified public accountants on his staff today began a search of state records for evidence with which to contest Governor Kelly's contention that the state has no surplus funds with which to provide special aid to financially distressed units of local government.

Auditor General John D. Morrison, at direction of the governor, threw his books and records open to Tobin, and the latter announced he had received "fine" cooperation.

He said he was making only a "highlight" check, to determine whether Kelly was correct in announcing recently that the state's general fund surplus in addition to its $50,000,000 postwar reserve fund totals $30,000,000, virtually all of which is needed for state purposes.

The governor meanwhile marked time with his newly proposed legislative program, of floating a $50,000,000 road bond issue and raising $30,000,000 additional taxes through new levies on gasoline, whiskey, beer, cigarettes, and intangible properties, principally for benefit of local government.

Churchill Ducks Drys On V-Day Celebration

London, Feb. 21 (P)—Winston Churchill, who is known to enjoy at least an occasional pony of brandy or a bit of Scotch, did some fancy side-stepping in comments today as prohibitionists, led by the outspoken, Virginia-born Lady Astor, attempted to pin him down in favor of a dry V-Day celebration.

With a twinkle in his eye the prime minister attempted to quiet fears that the celebration would develop into a drunken orgy with the subtle expression of hope and belief that "when the time comes we shall celebrate a victorious peace in a manner worthy of the British nation."

"The drink trade is already making plans to get our men drunk on the one day when we shall all be on our knees thanking God for victory," snapped Lady Astor, insisting that now is the time for closing pubs and bars on V-Day.

GERMANY'S RAIL LINES BATTERED

Rhine Valley Keypoint Of Worms Receives Heavy Air Blow

London, Thursday, Feb. 22 (P)—The massive Allied aerial assault against Germany's battered rail system was continued last night with a heavy RAF attack on the Rhine valley choke point of Worms. A 1,200 American heavy bomber force smashed Worms in daylight for the second day in one of the war's most concentrated air blows of the war. Berlin also was hit twice during the night by British bombers which kept the nine-day aerial offensive rolling through the darkness. Altogether more than 5,000 Allied warplanes joined in the day's attack on Germany, many of them giving close support to western front troops.

Worms, 12 miles north of Mannheim, is a keypoint in the communications system supplying the enemy forces in front of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's attacking Third Army.

In the big daylight raid the Nazi convention city of Nuernberg, which some unconfirmed reports have said now has supplanted Berlin as the Reich's capital, was battered for more than an hour by the American four-engined bombers.

Fifth Army Regains High Peak In Italy, Repulses Germans

BY LYNN HEINZERLING
Rome, Feb. 21 (P)—American troops on the Fifth Army front have captured the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Belvedere, 30 miles southwest of Bologna, in a daring night assault up precipitous slopes that some had to be negotiated with mountain-climbers' ropes.

Vicious German counterattacks were repulsed, but furious fighting still rages in the area, an Allied communique said today. The Americans had held the mountain and its villages west of the Pistoria-Bologna highway previously, but it was recaptured by the Nazis last Nov. 29 and they had held it since.

In the central sector of the Fifth Army front south of Bologna, official reports said, there was considerable enemy movement today, but its purpose was not immediately determined. The shifting enemy units were coming under American artillery and mortar fire.

FANATIC NIPS HALT MARINES ON TWO JIMA

CASUALTIES HEAVY; AIRFIELD TAKEN, MINES THICK

BY ELMONT WAITE
U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Thursday, Feb. 22 (P)—A third marine division, increasing the invasion force to possibly 45,000 men, has been thrown into the furious battle for Iwo to fill gaps caused by casualties already exceeding 3,600.

Disclosing the fresh commitments in a communique today, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz acknowledged that Japanese resistance rose to such a high pitch Wednesday afternoon, third day of the invasion, that the hard-fighting Devil Dogs virtually were stopped in their tracks.

The reinforced leathernecks, holding a wedge across the south third of the island, stormed the slopes of a volcano on the south tip with flamethrowers and tanks. Although unable to advance appreciably, they hurled back a counterattack in the vicinity.

Main Objective Held
On the north end of the wedge, Nipponese mine fields and intense mortar and artillery fire temporarily halted a drive toward an airfield in the center of the island.

Thus approximately 45,000 leathernecks may have been committed to an operation against Japanese estimated in today's communique to have totaled 20,000 when the island was invaded Monday.

The marines, having captured their main objective, the big Motoyama bomber airfield No. 1 Tuesday, were checked during an enveloping drive toward the island's other airfield to the north.

"Intense mortar, artillery and small arms fire is being encountered by our troops and in some areas extensive mine fields are slowing the advance," Nimitz said. "During the afternoon (Wednesday) there was no appreciable change in our lines," he reported.

"On the south flamethrowers and tanks are being used against well entrenched enemy troops in the Mt. Surimachi area," Nimitz added. "A counterattack launched by the enemy east of Mt. Surimachi shortly after noon was thrown back. Numerous land mines have been encountered in this vicinity. Four of our tanks were knocked out of action."

Fleet Pounds Enemy
The five-star fleet admiral, who earlier disclosed that marine casualties up to 8 a. m. Wednesday numbered 48 hours of invasion activities exceeded 3,600, said in today's communique that more than 850 Nipponese dead had been counted. He made it clear this was an incomplete count, made during the heat of the most bitter battle yet fought on a Pacific island.

All during Wednesday, battleships, cruisers and destroyers poured their shells into enemy strongpoints, thus building up a bombardment total which in the first three days exceeded 8,000 tons. The all-important battle of supplies was being won. As new supplies hit the beaches, the admiral was able to report that mortar fire on the beach area was diminishing.

He added, however, that loose volcanic ash was impeding the movement of equipment. In some places it prevents the passage of particularly heavy stuff.

Two No. 1 airdrome was capturing the second day of the flaming battle. The marines are headed presently toward the second one some 700 yards to the north.

The Fifth marine division on the southwest coast is on one flank of the two-runway field. Fourth division is making a frontal assault after its capture of the three-runway bomber field. Meanwhile there was no attempt by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' headquarters to play down the toughness of the fight. The admiral reported that 3,650 marines were killed or wounded in the first 48 hours on Iwo.

The admiral's communique did not divide the casualties, but his report that 3,063 wounded have been evacuated indicated the dead totaled some 600.

Tire Plant Strike Of Women Ended

Detroit, Feb. 21 (P)—Approximately 180 women employees of the United States Rubber company voted today to end their week-old strike and resume production of tires for military vehicles.

The back-to-work decision was accepted unanimously by the women, who are employed in the tire pocket building department. Company officials had reported that 500 other workers had to be laid off because of the strike.

Only Dead Japs Left On Bataan; Garrison On Corregidor Slain

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

Manila, Thursday, Feb. 22 (P)—Japanese hopelessly sealed in Corregidor's network of tunnels blew themselves up by touching off a main ammunition dump yesterday as American forces tightened the squeeze on the remaining enemy garrison there and also in Manila, where the Yanks captured the Manila hotel, one of the luxury spots of the Orient.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the enemy on Corregidor fortress, at the entrance to Manila Bay, was destroyed except for minor mopping up. He declared that a thorough combing of Bataan peninsula showed not a single Japanese left alive.

Howitzers Pound Walls
First Cavalry Division troops under Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, fighting up the south Manila shoreline, found the big Manila hotel battered but not beyond salvage. They also captured Burnham Green, a small park nearby.

The cavalrymen thus were within 50 feet of the southern wall of the ancient Intramuros, in which the Japanese are holed up for a bitter final fight. American howitzers are pounding the walled city's thick eastern wall to make way for tanks.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry Division, meantime, captured the three-story Ermita Normal school, southeast of the Manila hotel, and engaged Japanese defenders in the city hall, three blocks north of the school.

General MacArthur said the enemy garrison in south Manila was compressed into an area measuring about 700 yards by 500 within the ancient Intramuros, and the destruction of this force has been slow only because of the American desire to save the lives of civilians inside the walled city.

Barbarism Repulsive
The Japanese on Bataan were estimated several thousand strong when the Americans invaded the southern shore just a week ago to form a death vise in conjunction with a strong Yank force moving down from the north.

On Corregidor, invaded last Friday, MacArthur said more than 1,700 Japanese dead already had been buried and the count was only partially complete. The main tunnel has been blocked at both ends by explosives.

MacArthur described the Japanese within south Manila's medieval Intramuros as resisting with "savagery and barbarism ... seldom displayed in a more repulsive form."

Describing Berlin's last-ditch preparations, transcon said that "women, including ladies in fur coats, work in queues which pass bricks and stones to build barricades and strongpoints in ruined buildings."

"Machineguns rattle," the agency said, "as Volksturm (home guard) men practice house-to-house fighting in these ruins. Barricades and barbed wire are everywhere."

The Moscow radio reported new riots inside Germany, including a hunger march by hundreds of refugees in Stuttgart, south of Magdeburg. The report said that the marchers stormed a food store and the regular army intervened when SS elite guards attempted to fire on the mob.

Moscow also told of disorders in Munich which were said to have developed into pitched street battles with tank-supported SS units intervening after the city police refused to fire on civilian crowds.

Shift Of Liquor Enforcement To Sheriffs Opposed

Lansing, Feb. 21 (P)—A proposal to give county sheriffs additional funds with which to enforce liquor laws ran into opposition in the Senate today.

Senators George N. Higgins, Ferndale, Audley Rayson, Cass City, Otto W. Bishop, Alpena, and Robert J. McDonald, Flint, all protested that the measure would divert liquor license rebates to their local governments which were being used for general administration expenses.

The bill would instruct the liquor commission to allocate 40 per cent of the license refunds to the county to finance liquor law enforcement under the supervision of the sheriff. The local units now get 85 per cent of the license refunds.

Senator Harry F. Hittle, Lansing, said the bill was intended to place responsibility for liquor law enforcement on local officials. He said it would eliminate the common argument of local officials that they had no funds to finance enforcement.

Senator Ivan A. Johnston, Mt. Clemens, remarked "If I know anything about county sheriffs, they will get two of the best vote-getters they can find, dress them in monkey suits, put them out in a patrol car and that's the extent of the enforcement you'll get."

FORTY TOWNS ARE CAPTURED IN TWO DAYS

HEAVY AIR SUPPORT HELPS ADVANCE INTO GERMANY

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Paris, Feb. 21 (P)—The U. S. Third Army fought into Saarburg and closed up to the Saar river on an eight-mile front today, virtually eliminating all enemy resistance in the triangle formed by the Saar and Moselle rivers in climaxing an attack that in two days has gained ten miles and overrun nearly 40 German towns.

Between the Maas and Rhine rivers on the northern end of the front the Canadian First army's drive toward Calcar and the Ruhr gained momentum with the help of hundreds of British warplanes. Canadian troops, using flame throwers, cleaned the enemy out of the small Moyland forest and there were signs the German defense line—built up to ten divisions there—was finally beginning to crack.

Steel City Ahead
Far to the south doughboys of the American Seventh army fought through the streets of Forbach, overlooking the important German steel city of Saarbruecken which now is only three miles ahead of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's forward elements.

The troops moving forward in all three of these sectors were given tremendous air support. More than 5,000 Allied warplanes roared through clearing skies and battered transportation and military targets backing up the German lines.

Between them, Patton's armored and infantry forces already had seized more than two-thirds of the Saar-Moselle triangle and had gained control of an eight-mile stretch of the Saar river below Saarburg.

Sunshine In Battlefields

The Third Army also registered smaller gains elsewhere along its 55-mile front, biting into both shoulders of an enemy salient between the two American wedges drive through the Siegfried line in the Pruem and Echnach areas, and Lt. Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh Army farther south fought into Forbach and pushed to within three miles of Saarbruecken.

British empire forces regained the initiative on the 25-mile northern assault front after two days spent repelling fierce German counterattacks and drove forward up to a mile toward the vital Ruhr. Scots troops crushed the last Nazi resistance inside the rubble fortress city of Goch after two days of bloody house-to-house fighting.

With sunshine flooding the battle zone, Field Marshal Montgomery's forces drove the Germans back at point two miles from the road center of Udem and cut the Goch-Udem railway in a mile advance. On the west flank Scots pushed more than a half-mile across flat, open country southeast of captured Hommersum.

Roer Flood Drops
Canadians pounded and jabbed at German defenses outside Moyland, key to the adjacent stronghold of Calcar, whose capture would lay open a big stretch west of the Rhine.

The Roer river, behind which all or part of at least three great Allied armies await the signal to slam on into the Reich, dropped two more inches in the past 24 hours and the speed of its current had decreased 25 per cent in the three days.

Activity flared anew on the Alsatia Rhine, where the Germans put a small force across the river near Fessenheim, seven miles south of Neuf Rischach, under cover of an artillery barrage. French forces were believed to have the situation in hand.

The terrific force of Patton's attack in the Moselle-Saar triangle appeared to have doomed any hope the Germans had of making a stand in that area short of the Saar itself. Enemy losses were described as extremely heavy as second-class German troops failed to stand up to the blow.

A Third Army tank division lost no time in hurling itself through a breach torn in the enemy defense line yesterday by the 94th Infantry Division and quickly drove to a juncture with mechanized cavalry which had crossed the Moselle and swept to a point four and a half miles northwest of Saarburg.

FLYNN CONFIRMED
Lansing, Feb. 21 (P)—The senate today confirmed Governor Kelly's reappointment of Felix H. Flynn of Cadillac to the state liquor control commission. Flynn is a former state senator.

On account of snow the truck had to back into the chute with considerable power, and the driver did not see Englund behind the vehicle when he applied the power, according to an investigation by Justice Frank E. McKindies, acting coroner, and Sheriff Emil J. Schumacher. Englund died of internal injuries.

UTILITY DEAL STYMIED
Sault Ste. Marie—City Manager Henry A. Sherman's announcement at the commission meeting Monday night that legally a city cannot sell revenue bonds for the purchase of electric utilities stymied possible commission action to purchase the Edison Sault Electric company as a city-owned and operated utility.

Revenue bonds, City Attorney James J. Fenlon told commissioners, could be sold for almost anything else, including all public utilities with the exception of electricity.

With this method of purchasing the company ending in a blind alley, the question came up, "How about raising the money some other way?"

Lt. Roy Johnson of the army air corps has been promoted to rank of captain, according to word received by his wife and family at 820 Sheridan Road and his father, Fire Chief Arvid Johnson, 1219 First avenue north. Capt. Johnson, pilot of a P-47 fighter plane, is serving in the Burma theater.

Traffic Disrupted By Snow And Sleet; Drifting General
Detroit, Feb. 21 (AP)—A sleet and snow storm, which centered on the northern part of the state, hindered vehicular traffic and disrupted telephone communication lines today.

Weather bureau officials reported "heavy snow" was falling in the Upper Peninsula and said snow flurries and drifts would be general throughout the area Thursday. Sault Ste. Marie, Saint Ignace and Pellston all had considerable snow today, the weatherman said.

In Detroit, streets and sidewalks were a maze of slush and ice and police reported many minor automobile accidents had occurred. Mobile airport was completely closed down and bus company spokesmen said the bus drivers were hard pressed to maintain normal schedules.

Representatives of the Michigan Bell Telephone company said some of their lines in the Upper Peninsula were coated with ice an inch in diameter and reported some circuits throughout the state were out of order.

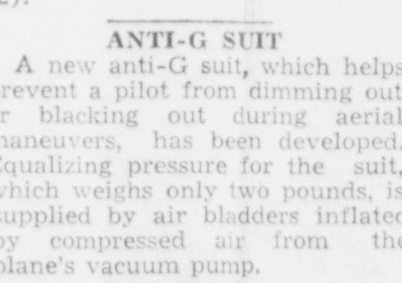

ANTI-G SUIT
A new anti-G suit, which helps prevent a pilot from dimming out or blacking out during aerial maneuvers, has been developed. Equalizing pressure for the suit, which weighs only two pounds, is supplied by air bladders inflated by compressed air from the plane's vacuum pump.

A carbon coating which gives a copy of a temperature of 40 degrees below zero, in high altitudes, or in tropical heat, has been developed by the carbon paper industry.

The blaze was extinguished with booster pumps and chemicals.

Doctor Says Baby Carried 375 Days Sets New Record

Los Angeles, Feb. 21 (AP)—Dr. Daniel Beltz, Los Angeles obstetrician, said today he had delivered the 25-year-old wife of an airplane plant worker of a six pound, 15 ounce baby daughter which he declared she had carried for 375 days.

Dr. Beltz said the closest approach in his records to such an extended pregnancy was 359 days.

Dr. E. W. Tice, head of the obstetrics ward at the hospital said he had never known of such a case "and cannot recall ever hearing of one in medical records."

The mother and child, Dr. Beltz said, are getting along splendidly.

Gripsholm Completes Sixth Mercy Trip With Repatriates

(By The Associated Press)
Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 21—The exchange ship Gripsholm brought home more Americans today—soldiers and merchant seamen from German prison camps and bewildered civilians—including 75 children—for whom America was a refuge from war.

As the sleek, white ship moved up the harbor, completing her sixth mercy trip, many of the 1,200 repatriates lined the deck for a glimpse of the Statue of Liberty.

"There she is," yelled one legless Canadian, who had asked to be on the deck.

An American soldier who wore the Purple Heart said jokingly: "That can't be her because the goons said she had been destroyed."

An army boat filled with WACS, its loudspeaker blaring, "Don't Fence Me In," greeted the Gripsholm down the bay.

Passengers raced from port to starboard to wave to the WACS as the little boat circled the 15,000-ton ship, whose passengers included 463 American soldiers, 78 Canadian military personnel, 46 merchant seamen, 548 United States civilians and 74 Latin-American nationals.

The American and Canadian soldiers, all ill or wounded, were the first to leave the ship. It was nearly 4 p. m.—three hours after the vessel docked—before they disembarked.

ODT PASSES UP SMALL MEETS

No Permits Are Needed When Attendance 50 Or Less

The task of reviewing the applications which have been pouring into the office of the War Relocation Authority has become so burdensome that the committee has decided that conventions, conferences and group meetings which have an out-of-town attendance of fifty or less, in addition to the local attendance, will not require permits.

It was emphasized by Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, chairman of the committee, that this action did not constitute approval of such meetings. "As a matter of fact," said Colonel Johnson, "the committee feels strongly that every gathering which utilizes transportation of any kind, hotel facilities or which cuts into the critically short supply of war materials and manpower should be cancelled or at least postponed until such time as the situation becomes less critical than it is now."

As it now stands, the interpretation of local meetings which do not require permits is "any meeting of purely local nature which is attended by not more than fifty persons who use transportation other than the regular facilities available within the city or suburban area—or in the case of rural community, within the normal trading area—and for whom no hotel sleeping accommodations are required."

It was also announced by the committee that trade shows, including cattle, horse, dog, horticultural and similar events may not be held without committee approval if attendance, entries or exhibitors are drawn from an area outside of that served by local or suburban transportation facilities within the normal trading area—and for which hotel sleeping accommodations are required.

City Folks Run Farms By Proxy

Chicago (AP)—Farming by proxy has increased substantially during the war, and the professional farm management business has expanded, too.

In a recent three-month period for example, 35 per cent of the farms sold in the north central region were purchased by non-farmer buyers, and 21 per cent of the new owners planned to lease their holdings to others.

Joseph Ackerman, secretary of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, reports that farm management companies now handle about 2,500,000 acres.

Their systems often work this way: a city investor buys a farm and engages a manager. The manager leases the farm to a tenant farmer, and drafts an operating plan. The manager also inspects the place periodically; makes reports to the absentee owner.

In most cases, a fee is paid to the manager or his company while the landlord and the tenant arrange to share the net income.

For the most part, Ackerman says, the practice has been profitable for all.

Some concerns supervise 500 or more farms, and one has more than 250,000 acres. Ackerman predicts a further growth of the business after the war and advises potential clients to look for trained, experienced, recognized managers.

He Has a Plan

ALTHOUGH new to the state of Michigan, Gov. Harry Kelly's proposed state cigarette tax has been imposed by the neighboring states of Wisconsin and Illinois, as well as in other commonwealths of the Union, for a number of years. A state tax of two cents per package and higher taxes on beer, wine and liquor, to help finance county, municipal and township governments, is a part of a new tax plan placed before the state legislature, at Lansing, on Tuesday by Governor Kelly, in a bold move to call the hands of certain municipal officials who have been demanding a share of state taxes, without paying any definite plan to meet the financial problems of suffering city treasuries.

In addition, Gov. Kelly proposed the highly debatable issue of bonding the state gasoline tax to four cents per gallon, to finance postwar highway and street improvements, in the state, counties and municipalities. It is not considered as likely that governor's latter proposal will meet any substantial measure of approval in the legislature, but in proposing a new state cigarette tax and higher taxes on beer, liquor and wine, the state's chief executive has met the challenge of municipal government officials. He has, at least, proposed a plan. Whether the legislature will see fit to accept the proposal is another question.

There is plenty of precedent to back the imposition of the proposed cigarette tax, for many states have levied and collected such a tax for many years. It is now up to the legislature and the financially hungry municipalities of Michigan.

Upper Peninsula Copper

IN A recent talk to members of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce, Professor Robert C. Matson of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, expressed his belief that there is a great deal of commercial copper in the Keweenaw area, outside the now operating mines.

But a small part of the known copper formation has been systematically prospected, according to this authority. He foresees a fairly bright picture for Michigan copper after the war. The Department of Commerce estimates that after the first year of peace, when the expected time of hesitation and uncertainty has passed, the country will need 15 billion dollars worth of producer goods, 17 billions in consumer goods and 18 billions in construction—all large outlets for copper.

Professor Matson stated that the world's copper production from 1879 to date has been 58 million tons. This would make a cube more than 600 feet on each side, or about one and one-half city blocks. The production of Lake Superior copper in the same period was 4,900,000 tons, or about a fifteenth of the world's production.

He pointed out that the Lake Superior formations so-called are a part of a basin 700 miles long, crescent-shaped and extending from northern Iowa to the eastern shores of Lake Superior. The theory is that in ancient times the center of Lake Superior was a huge volcano, out of which through many decades streams of lava spouted, the flow congealing in a top layer, the amygdaloid, and the bottom trap.

The glacial period brought in boulders and pebbles, and these mixed with amygdaloid produced conglomerate. Not every portion of the top layer is mineralized, but in view of the great volume of copper-bearing formation, there is likely to be more copper on the range.

The speaker said that about 1,000 government mining permits were issued in the early days on the Keweenaw peninsula. Two hundred mining companies were organized during the period, and 24 became large producers. Up to the present time 90 shafts have been operated at depths of from 1,000 to 6,000 feet. Thirteen companies have returned more in dividends than was invested in their original capital.

The volume of red metal taken in all from Copper Country lodes would cover an area of ground 3,000 feet wide, 12 feet deep and ten miles long. Most of that tremendous slab of copper is still in use somewhere in the world today. The speaker called this record one of the wonders of the world, and stated that the total will probably be considerably augmented before mining ceases on the Keweenaw.

Paris—Paris, once called the city of light, is today a city of darkness and misery. A pretense of the old Paris is kept up but it is a rather pathetic gilding on what is an empty shell.

Shops on the Rue De La Paix and the Place De L'Opera still have smart things in the windows, but these articles are merely window-dressing. Nothing like them is for sale inside the shops. Similarly, perfume bottles are displayed in windows, but the American army has long since cleaned out the supply.

It is a little like the huge peach-basket hats worn by women who still try to look fashionable. They are pretentious in a sad sort of way and very, very expensive. An American tripper who wanted to take a Paris hat back to his wife found that the minimum price at a lesser-known establishment was $100.

He's Still Huffy

PROUD, temperamental General De Gaulle has refused to accept a bid to meet with President Roosevelt at a designated Mediterranean rendezvous, and his attitude is beginning to wear out the patience of his best friends.

It apparently is true that President Roosevelt and General De Gaulle personally have not hit it off very well from the start. The haughty French leader has periodically acted as though he were not being treated in a manner befitting his position, and has been a source of annoyance to both British and American officials.

However, there are important developments in the making, and General De Gaulle could serve France better by cooperating with the leaders of the Allied nations to whom his country owes its liberation. De Gaulle has been given all credit due for keeping alive the spirit of the French republic during its darkest days of Axis conquest, but most certainly he could not have won the battle alone.

There are greater considerations now than a proud man's personal feelings. General De Gaulle should quit sulking in his tent.

Well, today is George Washington's birthday, and I can't help wondering what the father of our country would think of it today. For one thing, he probably wouldn't enjoy asking the ration board for gas—that's a terrible ordeal for a man who can't tell a lie.

He was always first in the hearts of his countrymen, but if it were possible, they'd love him even more today. He was a tobacco grower, you know.

It's funny but no one seems to know for sure whether Washington ever thought that dollar across the Potomac. One thing I do know, he couldn't do it today. Not with Mr. Morgenthau hanging on to most of it.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q. Can you explain a curious word usage that prevails here (Kansas City, Kansas)? Many persons here, both white and colored, say, "I taken," when they mean "I took." None of the etymological big-wigs can explain it.—D. D. B.

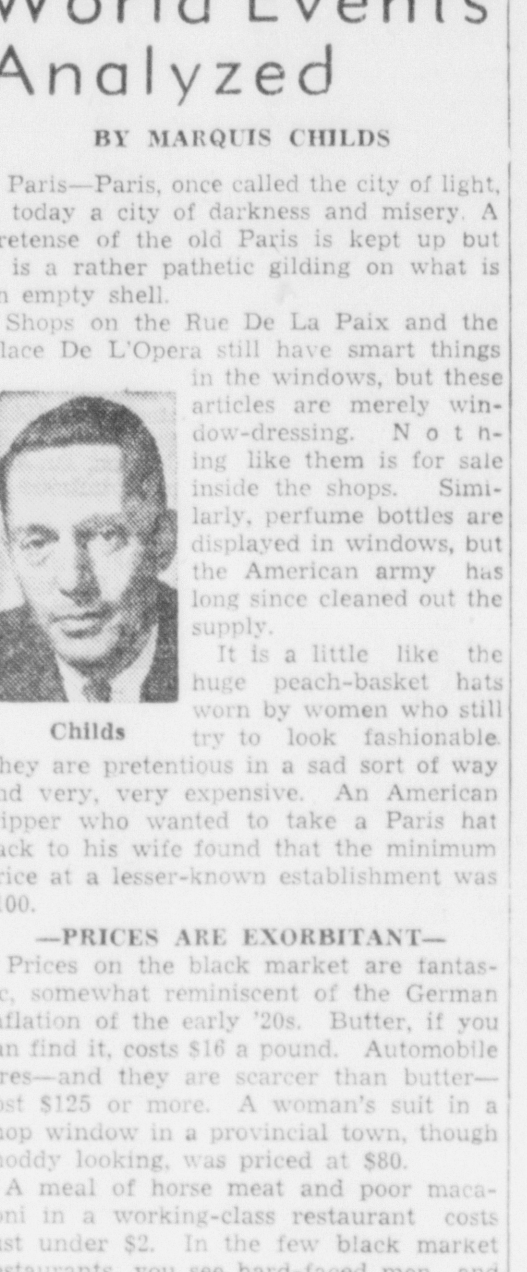

Answer: "I taken, I seen, I done" are widespread in the Middle West, the South, and the Southwest, but not so prevalent in the northern and eastern states.

These erroneous expressions are caused by mistaking I'd taken, I'd seen, I'd done for "I taken, I seen, I done," since in ordinary speech the "d" of "I'd" is either obscure, or is not sounded at all.

Taken, seen, and done are past participles, and should not be used in the past tense.

HOLIDAY POLICY—About a week back this column presented what purported to be a case for establishing a uniform system of holiday observance for county employees. It was suggested that by adopting a schedule of holidays to be observed in all county offices, the public would know definitely which days the offices would be closed, and county employees would all have equal opportunity for enjoying the holidays.

Attorney Harlan J. Yelland, also having read the column, and over-hearing the fuss at the court house, said that he would take care of the situation with a communication which would clear up the misunderstandings. Atty. Yelland wrote:

I read with interest your article of last Wednesday in regard to various county offices being closed on certain dates, while other county offices remained open. I was surprised to learn that there have been complaints regarding the closing of some county offices.

It may be of interest to those who complained that these holidays are regulated by the laws of the State of Michigan. New Year's Day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Decoration Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Armistice Day and Christmas are all set aside as legal holidays. In addition to this, from Saturday noon until midnight is designated as a half holiday. Then there are Election days and Thanksgiving that are also legal holidays. There are many acts which, if performed on these days, are illegal and this is especially true in the County Treasurer's Office, The County Clerk's Office, and the Judge of Probate's Office, so you see that there is a very good reason for County Offices closing on these designated days. Of course, banking institutions are also subject to these holidays, but critics have been notoriously prone to criticize anyone, except public officials, for closing on these holidays. They would not think of criticizing the banking institutions.

I might say further that there are designated holidays for schools and that our Federal Statutes designate certain holidays for the various Federal Agencies, so, generally speaking, when any County Office is open on a legal holiday, it is on a purely voluntary basis. The only exception might be the Highway Department, in cases of emergency.

Very truly yours,
Harlan J. Yelland.

SURPRISE MEETING—In Dutch New Guinea recently PFC Vern Sturdivant of the infantry, and his step-son, Seaman 1-c R. J. Cook of the U. S. Navy, finally met—and it was a surprise to both.

In a letter to Mrs. Sturdivant of Escanaba Rt. 1, PFC Sturdivant wrote that he stepped out a tent—and there was his step-son. Both have been in Dutch New Guinea since July, but the meeting was their first since they went overseas.

Q. Can't you do something about such sentences as this, taken from a syndicated column: "I had two of my friends killed in the invasion?"—G. W. T.

Answer: Of course the columnist didn't mean that he had ordered the death of his friends, but that is the implication in his wording. Correct: "Two of my friends were killed in the invasion."

Wrong: "I had my leg broken in two places."
Right: My leg was broken in two places.

Wrong: "She had her mother injured in a traffic accident."
Right: Her mother was injured in a traffic accident.

Wrong: "He had his house to burn down."
Right: His house burned down.

Into the Past

By The Bugler

10 Years Ago—1935
The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce will hold a luncheon meeting at the Ludington hotel Tuesday noon, Feb. 26, in honor of Major Ralph Royce and his Selfridge Field army fliers, who will be stopping here while enroute home from their test flights in the Northwest, it was announced yesterday by Secretary Harold P. Lindsay.

20 Years Ago—1925
Miss Norine Potvin entertained a group of friends last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potvin. The evening was spent in dancing which was followed by refreshments.

25 Years Ago—1920
Madison, Wis.—"Yes, I believe in ouija boards," Dr. Clarke L. Hull, head of the psychological experimental laboratory department of the University of Wisconsin, said, "but I do not believe that any disembodied spirit ever used one to get a message to the living."

I am willing to admit that a good ouija board operators are sincere in their assertions that they believe a spirit is moving their hands as the little three-cornered carriage glides about the polished surface and either writes words or points out letters from a printed alphabet. But I am confident that no answer was ever given by an ouija board that was not in the mind of the operator, sublimely or unconsciously.

plan labor's participation in the 1945 Red Cross drive, spoke frankly of the criticism they had heard of the Red Cross—and cited several instances to show how the Red Cross program benefits the serviceman and his family.

One of the local union representatives told how, last year, he had heard a few of the laboring men repeat rumors hurtful to the Red Cross.

"Sometimes I think those stories must come from our enemies," he said. "When I hear a man talk like that, I feel like telling him that he doesn't have to give to the Red Cross if he doesn't want to—if he'll only stop repeating those propaganda stories."

Alfred Brandt of the Carpenters & Joiners local, organized labor chairman for the Red Cross in Delta county, told two stories revealing the valuable work of the Red Cross.

The first was about the young serviceman, home to attend the funeral of his father in Escanaba. Overhearing comments against the Red Cross, the serviceman said, "I can't keep still any longer. If it wasn't for the Red Cross I wouldn't be home for Dad's funeral. I was out on maneuvers when the Red Cross man came to tell me he had died. They arranged for me to come home—and paid my fare."

Brandt also described his personal observation of the Red Cross home service work. The Carpenters & Joiners union office, and the Red Cross home service office are in the same building, almost in the same room. "There wasn't a day that Flanders (G. Z. Flanders, home service chairman) didn't help four or five people, men in service or members of their families," Brandt reported.

OF THINGS PAST—The airplane spotting tower atop the Delta hotel is being dismantled by city workmen and soon will be a thing of the past, a remembrance only by the scores of Escanaba men and women who volunteered their time looking for enemy planes that, fortunately, never came.

Back in 1942 (it seems longer ago than that) the whole North American continent was on the watch for enemy planes. An elaborate air raid alarm system was established. Escanaba had one blackout. The phase of the war is now nearly forgotten. Yet only recently there was a test, via state police radio, of the effectiveness of the warning system still maintained by a civilian defense remnant in Michigan.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—On the surface the "Good Neighbors" meeting in Mexico City will be composed of friendly, 100-per-cent Allies of the United States against the Axis. But beneath the surface they will be irritated at several things which have lowered "Good Neighbor" prestige to about the lowest ebb since 1927 when U. S. Marines invaded Nicaragua.

Irritant No. 1—Is growing indication that the U. S. A. intends to keep certain Latin-American bases after the war. There is nothing that riles Latin America more than American armed forces on their soil.

Irritant No. 2—Is the peremptory way President Roosevelt recently demanded that six "Good Neighbors" come into the war.

Some people wondered why Peru, Chile, Paraguay, Uruguay, and Ecuador trooped up to the Allied table just as the Red army neared Berlin and signed up.

This was not because they wanted to. It was because they got a letter from no less than the President of the United States telling them to join the Allies—or else.

The "or else" was a warning that they could not sit at the United Nations conference, now scheduled for San Francisco, if they did not declare war.

What made the Latin doubly sore was their belief that Roosevelt was acting at the instance of Stalin who had laid down the law that no non-belligerent could sit in United Nations councils. Most of the Latin-American governments don't recognize Stalin and don't like dictation from him—even if indirect.

Also they remembered the oral word of the state department that all they had to do was to break relations with the Axis, not declare war. For instance, Chile, when it broke with the Axis, informed the state department that it was also ready to declare war. But Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles, after conferring with the White House, told them this would be unnecessary. All we wanted was a break in diplomatic relations. The Chileans were told. So now when we need American solidarity more than ever, the good neighbors aren't too happy.

FRANCO HAUNTS MEXICO

Last month, members of the old Spanish Cortez tried to hold a meeting in Mexico City. The Cortez is the Spanish parliament, and ever since Franco set up his dictatorship, its members have been exiled, many in Latin America.

So it was proposed that the remnants of Democratic Spain get together and hold a meeting in Mexico City.

But they did not reckon with our state department.

When James C. Dunn (husband of the Armour millions) was called before the Senate during the confirmation fight over his promotion to be assistant secretary of state, he told Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania that he had never been favorable to Franco. Since then he has inspired a series of newspaper columns purporting to tell how he had nothing to do with the boycott of Loyalist Spain.

However, when two members of the Spanish Cortez sought passport visas to cross the Panama Canal to attend the meeting in Mexico City, the state department said no. The Spanish congressmen were south of the Panama Canal and the Mexico City meeting was north. The canal lay across their path, and the state department refused to let them cross. The man in the state department who passes primarily on these matters is James C. Dunn. Hull is no longer in the state department. Stettinius was either away or busy with the big 3 conference. The main decision was up to Dunn.

So the Spanish Cortez could not get a quorum and was not held.

In some respects the inter-American conference now opening in Mexico City will take its place. It is almost certain to raise the question of Republican Spain, despite the state department, demand the condemnation of Franco.

Meanwhile, Congressman John Coffee of Tacoma, Wash., has uncovered a significant document purporting to show what everyone has long suspected, that the Germans have been using Franco to spread anti-American propaganda. Coffee has three photostats of a letter from the secretary of the Spanish Embassy in Buenos Aires which baldly refers to "money received from Germany." Written Feb. 18, 1943, a translation of the letter reads:

"In accordance with orders received, I have conducted an interview with Comrade Jose Ignacio Ramos, with regard to the distribution which ought to be given the money received as an aid from the German embassy in a new campaign of propaganda."

"Comrade Ramos is in accord with the basic principles which ought to be followed, and has formally promised to deliver to me within a few days a detailed plan of said campaign."

"For God, for Spain and for the National-Syndicalist Revolution."

Ramos was press attache of the Spanish Embassy. Among his jobs was to represent Spain at frequent meetings with German, Japanese and Italian diplomats to plan the all-Axis propaganda drive in Latin America.

No matter what else comes of the inter-American conference, painstaking Nelson Rockefeller is determined that his delegates shall be prim, proper, and adequately nourished. Just before they left Washington, Rockefeller called in the young army of advisers he is taking to Mexico City—including farm and labor leaders—and gave them a few helpful hints on what to do, say, and wear at the coming conference.

NEW YORK — Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon has been unable to find a home in Washington.

After 3 weeks he and his family still board with friends. . . . Sen. Morse received much publicity when he brought two horses from Oregon to Washington. One is a brood mare, and the other is a stud horse from which he nets $2,500 a year. . . . Sen. Morse addressed the Republican dinner in Columbus last week. He told Ex-Gov. Bricker and his fellow Republicans: "The Republican Party won't come into power until the American people are convinced they can get a square deal from us." The Senator then left to catch a train, and Columbus Mayor provided a police car and escort. "After your speech," the Mayor said, "I think you'd need this car whether you had to make a train or not."

JACK BENNY reports that the old cigarette-vending machines have been reconditioned: They've been fixed so that now you can put in butts and get out money. . . . The Theatre Guild is rehearsing "Carousel" at the International Theatre, where its new hit, "Sing Out, Sweet Land," is playing. Verlyn Webb, the theatre's doorman, who received his medical discharge from the Army, heard that there were auditions inside, tried for a role and now is a member of the cast. . . . Vice-President Harry Truman's military aide insists that Truman had no idea that his piano-playing photo with Lauren Bacall was being taken.

AT THE NATL. ASSN. of Broadcasters luncheon on Saturday, prize winner Eleanor Roosevelt cut a minute and a half from her short speech because Queen Wilhelmina's address took that much more time. . . . It was at this luncheon that Gen. David Sarnoff complimented Mrs. A. Loudon, wife of The Netherlands' Ambassador, on her ability to speak English without a trace of foreign accent. "Why should that be surprising?" replied Mrs. Loudon. "I was born here." . . . Comptroller-General Lindsay C. Warren may become a Federal Judge in North Carolina.

SENATOR CHANDLER brought a friend into the Senate restaurant and introduced him to Harry Truman who asked: "I suppose you're from Kentucky?" Senator Chandler said: "Never ask that, Mr. Vice-President. If they're from Kentucky, they'll let you know it. If they aren't, they'll be ashamed and embarrassed when you ask them." . . . At last night's dinner to Archbishop MacLeish, Dr. Harlow Shapley, the Harvard astronomer, said of one of the speakers: "He's like the Liberty Bell—vibrant, vibrating and perhaps slightly cracked."

Dolin once played it privately, at Barrie's home, but the playwright insisted: "Peter Pan" shall always be played by a girl." . . . A lady carrying a paper bag in front of the Plaza dropped it and it burst on the sidewalk. A bystander volunteered: "Can I help you pick it up?" The lady replied: "No, thanks. They'll pick it up themselves. It's bird seed."

A new berth is being sought for Old Ironsides, officially known as the "Constitution." This historic fighting ship has been berthed in the Boston Navy Yard for the last ten years, but an insufficiency of space for the berthing of combat ships makes it necessary that a new resting place be found for Old Ironsides.

5000 VEHICLES LACK '45 TAGS

Less Than One Week Remains Before Deadline

Between 5,000 and 6,000 motor vehicles in the Escanaba area still are without 1945 state license plates, although less than one week remains before the expiration of the 1944 plates, William Ranguette, manager of the local office of the license bureau, reported yesterday.

Ranguette announced that the office, located at 817 Ludington street, will be open all day today, despite the local observance of Washington's birthday, and that starting next Monday the office will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, to handle the rush for plates.

Owners of motor vehicles are reminded that they must bring in their certificate of title to show proof of ownership when applying for license plates. Also owners of commercial vehicles must bring their 1944 registration or weight slip with their certificate of title in making application for new plates.

Ranguette estimated the total number of motor vehicles in the Escanaba area as between 10,000 to 12,000, about half of which have already secured 1945 plates. As in 1944, only a single plate is provided and this is attached to the rear of the vehicle.

MAKING PILLS OF PENICILLIN

Was Impossible To Take Medicine By Mouth Heretofore

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(P) Science Editor

New York.—Discovery of a method to make penicillin pills, to replace the injection by needle, was announced today by the Lederle Laboratories of the American Cyanamid Company.

Pills to be taken by mouth have been one of the main medical goals in penicillin treatment. Until now it has been impossible to do this because the gastric juices in the stomach destroyed most of the penicillin.

Raymond L. Libby, of the Cyanamid Research Laboratories at Stamford, Conn., solved this trouble by placing penicillin in a double-deck capsule. The outside covering is gelatin, which is dissolved in the stomach. The inside cover is cottonseed oil, which is little affected by stomach juices.

The oil carries the drug to the small intestine, where it is absorbed into the blood, the place where penicillin has to be to do any good. Experiments with peanut and corn oil indicated that probably any vegetable oil is good for the inside coating.

The pills were tried successfully on animals, and then, with equally good results, on human beings in a New York hospital.

More penicillin had to be given by the mouth route than by needle, but this was made up for by the fact that in the blood the oil-penicillin lasts about twice as long as plain penicillin injected by needle.

The pill penicillin does not last as long as the needle stuff used in the army to cure gonorrhea in a single shot. This penicillin is mixed with beeswax and peanut oil and was discovered by Capt. J. Romansky, last August.

THEIR SOLDIER'S A LUCKY GUY—Lucider than most soldiers overseas is Maj. Joe Hattenbach, of Cleveland. Every single day, somewhere in Italy, he knows that from one to three letters from his family are on their way to him. They've been doing that ever since he entered the service in September, 1942. So far he has received about 1000. He also writes a daily letter home, and the photo above shows Mrs. Hattenbach, with daughters Nancy, left, and Marcia, looking over some of their "fan mail." Ernie Pyle Enjoys Ride In Seat Alongside Pilot

BY ERNIE PYLE

In the Marianas Islands (delayed)—Our chief pilot on the last long leg of our flight from Honolulu to the Marianas was Lieut. Commander Don Skirvin. He's from the family that owns big hotels in Oklahoma City and even if you didn't know, you could tell from his creased hands and neck that he's either a Texan or an Oklahoman.

C o m m a n d e r Skirvin has never worked at the hotel business, though he has to have freedom, and gad about the world. He has been flying 18 years—flew for oil companies in South America, went to Spain during the revolution and flew combat there.

Then came our war and he went into the navy and flew combat in the South Pacific. But he likes big planes best, and now is Trans-Pacific skipper on these huge airliners.

—Sat Alongside Pilot—

Just before daylight Commander Skirvin sent the orderly back to wake me up, and asked me to come forward to the pilot's compartment. Then he had me sit in the co-pilot's seat, and from that exalted vantage point on this monster of the air I saw the dawn gradually touch and lighten the cottony acres of clouds out there over the wide Pacific.

Flying is mostly monotonous and dull. But there are always little peaks of grandeur in every flight. Seeing this dawn come was one of them. It was an exaltation, and you couldn't help but be thrilled by it.

Commander Skirvin takes movies as a hobby, and has taken 1500 feet of color film of just such dawns and sunsets as this one. He said the folks at home wrote that if he saw such things as this often, no wonder he liked to fly.

—Like School Returned—

We came out of the boundless sky and over our island destination just a little after dawn. The island was green and beautiful—and terribly far from home—down there in the fresh dawn.

It seemed unbelievable that we could have drawn ourselves to it so unerringly out of the vast Pacific spaces. It was like a blind man walking alone across a field, and putting his finger directly on some previously designated barb of a wire fence on the other side. But as I say, they do it all the time. (Thank the Lord!)

Then Commander Skirvin asked if I would like to stay up front while we landed. Indeed I would, for that is a rare invitation. I stood just behind the two pilots while we circled the field and dropped lower and circled again.

Landing one of these immense planes is like a ritual in school. The co-pilot takes a printed list, encased in plexiglass, from off the instrument board. Then he starts reading aloud, down the list. After each item the pilot calls back "check."

It takes five minutes to go through all the complicated adjustments to change the plane from something that will only fly, into something that will also merge successfully with the earth. Always the typed list is read aloud and checked to make sure that no single thing is forgotten.

And then we were ready. It was hot down close to the ground, and sweat was pouring off us. Over his radio the co-pilot asked the ground for permission to land. Commander Skirvin twisted himself more firmly into his seat, took a heavy grip on the control wheel pushed forward on the stick, and down we went.

—Landings Are Thrilling—

When you fly, there is no sense of speed at all. It is as though you were sitting forever in one spot. But when you land, the earth comes up to you with appalling speed. Things go faster and faster. Everybody is tense. The whole field comes up at you almost as in a nightmare. It is the most thrilling thing about flying.

And then you blend into the earth. These planes are so big and stand so high that it seems to me we were still 50 feet in the air when we felt the wheels touch. The plane stuck to the runway and rushed on forward with shocking speed.

The runway was long, and Commander Skirvin called "we'll use all of it, for I don't believe in tromping on the brakes."

Then gradually we slowed and when we'd come almost to a stop, a jeep pulled out in front of us. On the back of it was a big blackboard and painted on the board were the words "follow me." The jeep slowly led us to our parking place.

Then the co-pilot read off another list, while the pilot pulled levers and turned switches and called "check." It took more than a minute to transform that great metal bird from something animate and miraculous, into something that stands lifeless on the ground.

And then the door opened and we stepped down onto the strange soil of the Marianas Islands—close at last to the vast sprawling war of the Pacific.

SOME POWER

An automobile which is traveling 60 miles an hour and hits an object and then is able to stop within three feet exerts enough force to lift 40 such cars three feet into the air.

Press Q&A Service

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, and (important) Mail This Coupon and a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to Service Bureau 1317 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C. for a personal reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Q. I have an adjusted service certificate which was payable January 1, 1945. Will I get any interest if I don't redeem it?

A. No, it is worth only its face value, as interest had already been computed thereon, from the date of issuance to maturity.

Q. When an Army officer receives rental and subsistence allowance for his dependents, but refuses to support his dependents, will the War Department cut off the allowance?

A. The War Department says that if "it can be officially proved" the officer is not supporting his dependents, and the officer upon query by the War Department admits it to be a fact, the officer's dependency allowance is cut off.

Q. My husband is in the service overseas. If I adopt a child while he is away would the Government pay the Family Allowance for the child?

A. The legally adopted child of a soldier is entitled to a Family Allowance. Application should be filed on behalf of the child with the Office of Dependency Benefits, 213 Washington St., Newark, 2, N. J., with certified copy of the child's birth record and the adoption decree.

Q. Where can one learn whether or not a neighbor is a naturalized citizen?

A. Since there is no law requiring residents in this country to be citizens, the naturalization records are not public. The neighbor is not obliged to prove whether or not he is a citizen except in case such proof is a requirement for employment.

Q. What causes the irregular shapes of the summer snow fields on mountains?

A. Irregularities of the snow surface develop and grow as the result of the variations in angle of incidence of the sun and radiation being reflected from the sides of initially shallow pits. In the cold, dry air where this phenomenon occurs, the snow is melted and converted directly to vapor by solar radiation. The snow may also be initially irregular from drifting or underlying obstructions.

Q. Does hair grow more in summer than in winter?

A. Hair in good condition grows from five to eight inches a year, varying with the general physical condition. Care of the hair, climate and mode of dressing, more or less affect the growth. Hair grows more in summer than in winter, and more in daytime than at night.

Q. What do you recommend for enlarged pores?

A. Keep the skin clean and use a good astringent daily. A spring diet, chiefly of fruit and liquids, and drinking water copiously should clear the skin of enlarged pores if it is kept clean and the proper astringents are used.

Council To Make Application For County Charter

Mrs. Dan Gallagher, president of the Camp Fire Council, opened that group's first meeting at the junior high school Tuesday night by explaining the qualifications for making application for a council charter.

Clarence Zerbel highlighted the proposed constitution which is to be sent with application for a charter, and it was accepted by those in attendance. Mr. Zerbel announced that officers of the Camp Fire board had decided upon "Bay de Noc Council" as the name for the county organization.

Miss Margaret Wade, chairman of the guardians' association, spoke on the history of Camp Fire Girls locally, telling of the beginning of the Whitecap group in 1939 and of the increased interest up to the present. Five groups are fully organized, a Bluebird group in the grade schools and a Horizon club at the senior high school are in process of organization and the parochial schools are considering the program. Miss Wade expressed the idea that the girls in this community, and in all others, need a program such as Camp Fire to help them in making the adaptation which they will have to make as a result of the young men who have entered the service having matured in a different atmosphere than that in which the girls have matured.

Pat Frasher and Joyce Erickson, Camp Fire Girls, spoke briefly on the value of the program to them.

Miss Wade introduced the guardians present at Tuesday night's meeting, and Mrs. Gallagher introduced the committee chairmen who in turn announced their committee members.

Members of the Camp Fire Board decided upon the first Tuesday of each month as their regular meeting night.

Large Crowd At Session Of Bridge League

BY L. W. OLSON

With Mr. and Mrs. J. Richards coming out the winners in one of our usual close and interesting contests the Delta Bridge League held its usual weekly duplicate game at the Elks lodge rooms with a very fine group in attendance.

Twenty-eight boards of duplicate play was the order for the night and everyone present enjoyed immensely the many freak hands which came up. There were ohs and ahs from all corners of the playing room throughout the session as pairs made game after bidding short of game or bid game and went down two or three tricks. I believe that there were more freak hands in last Saturday's duplicate game than in any game this year. However, these are the kind of hands that really test the partnership to the limit.

Tickets for the bridge party to be given under the co-sponsorship of the Escanaba Daily Press and the Delta Bridge League are now available from most of the members of the Bridge League and the drive will soon be on to get every bridge player in Delta county to this party. This is the chance for all you players who have never played duplicate to get both an evening of fun and one of instruction in the playing of a duplicate game. So all of you arrange to have your little bridge group meet the week of March 24 at our party. Don't forget that all the proceeds of this party go to the American Red Cross. Not one penny of the money taken in goes for anything else. So help us make this the biggest and we will assure you it will be the best that we have ever had.

Pairs scoring fifty per cent or over last week were:

1. Mr. and Mrs. J. Richards, 63.34.
2. Mrs. L. W. Olson and E. J. Kremer, 61.12.
3. Mrs. E. A. Christie and Mrs. R. Louis, 60.00.
4. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Howe, 57.86.
5. Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dehlin, 54.34.
6. Mrs. A. Kraus and Mrs. W. Shepeck, 53.75.
7. Mr. and Mrs. J. Card, 52.23.
8. C. Buckbee and W. C. Jensen, 51.78.
9. Mrs. T. C. Shanahan and Mrs. W. O. LaFond, 50.89.

A. D'AMOUR ROTE SPEAKER

Describes Logging As
Carried On Today
By Company

Insight into logging operations as carried on by the Northern Veneer and Plywood corporation, city, at McMillan was given to Gladstone Rotarians by A. D'Amour at the regular meeting this week.

At the present time the firm employs an average of 225 men in logging operations the year around and the raw material produced is used in the Gladstone plant and the Atlas Plywood at Munising. Selective logging is practiced by the firm and only hardwoods 20 inches in diameter and over are cut. Pine, hemlock and chemical wood are also taken but through selective logging it is estimated that the land can again be logged in 25 years, D'Amour said.

In the past three years 25 sections of timberland have been logged by the firm.

All of the operations are mechanized and all during this time have been carried out from the same camps, men being transported by truck and auto for 8 or 10 miles from the camp daily.

Two 15-ton bulldozers are used in making roads. Trees to be felled are marked and are topped by chainsmen. Tractors, 15 in number, are used instead of horses to pull the logs and 23 one and one-half ton trucks are used in transporting the logs to the railroad. In addition there are snow plows and other types of equipment used in the operations.

Camps have electricity for lights and refrigeration, hot and cold running water and showers for the men.

Food is of the best and there is fresh fruit, eggs, milk and meat daily.

One trouble these days is the fact that the men make so much money in a single month that many of them need a week in order to get rid of it and it hampers operations to some extent.

SKIING STARS—Gary Soderman, 15, (above) Gladstone, won the Swedish club trophy race at the Gladstone winter sports park carnival Sunday.

and Mrs. Margaret Blair, Kipling, copped the Lions club trophy event. A sizable crowd attended the program.

WANT M-94 CONSIDERED

Lions Club Asks State
To Improve Road
To North

Why is Highway M-94, this area's shortest connecting link with Munising and Marquette, permitted to remain in the status of the most neglected state highway in Upper Michigan?

The question was asked pointedly at Tuesday evening's session of the Lions club, by Everett Cookson, who has long been active in sponsoring the improvement of that thoroughfare to the extent that it may become an all year around highway.

At present, Mr. Cookson said, the road is passable for good motoring only in the winter when the snow plows have leveled it off. In the spring it is muddy and full of chuckholes in spots and in the summer a pall of dust hangs heavily over it. This neglect, he says is permitted in spite of the fact that it is the shortest route, by many miles, between here and Munising and that it traverses one of the most scenic regions in the Upper Peninsula.

The Lions club went on record favoring the improvement of this highway and ordered resolutions drawn up and sent to the State Commissioner of Highways requesting that this highway be given consideration in the current plans for highway improvement in this part of the state.

Presbytery Of Region Met In City Tuesday

The Manistique Presbyterian church was host Tuesday to the Lake Superior Presbytery at a specially called meeting.

The meeting was called to facilitate the necessary arrangements permitting the Rev. O. O. Jones, Presbyterian pastor at Escanaba, to leave the local Presbytery in order that he might assume his new duties as pastor of a church at Belle Fountain, Ohio.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for conducting camps this coming summer at Presbytery Point on Lake Michigan.

Represented at the meeting were pastors from churches at Ishpeming, Stambaugh, Florence, Wis., Iron Mountain, Escanaba and St. Ignace.

Social

Bethel Youth Fellowship—The regular monthly business and social of the Bethel Youth Fellowship of the Bethel Baptist church was held Tuesday evening at the parsonage.

The meeting was opened with chorus singing and was called to order by President Justin Nelson. During the business session it was decided to continue working for the bond to be donated to the Men's Dormitory of Bethel College. A hike was planned for Saturday evening.

A program was given consisting of devotions by June Wicklund, vocal duet by Betty Jean and Justin Nelson, and a talk by Rev. Martinson. A letter was written during the meeting to one of the service men in which all present participated.

Tasty refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostesses Grace and Ruth Martinson.

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Seeley, Gladstone Route 1, are the parents of a seven pound, 5 ounce son, born Monday morning at St. Francis hospital. The child, the second in the family, is to be christened Lowell Douglas.

Det. Emil Sirola has returned to his base at Fort Meade, Maryland, after having spent a short leave here with his family.

Lindgren Is Still Setting Smear Pace—John Lindgren's team maintained first place in the Masonic smear tournament and also its 10-point margin on Lloyd Mould's second place crew in play Monday evening. Both Lindgren and Moulds scored 65 points to tie for fourth for the evening while Walter Tang's crew had first place with 72 and improved their third place position.

Plans for the Gladstone drive are now being mapped by a committee composed of J. A. Sturgeon, John Vogt and Mrs. M. J. Neveaux.

It is planned to conduct the campaign through the use of block captains as has been the custom in recent years and these workers will be called together at a meeting to be held in the city hall next Tuesday at which time a special Red Cross film is to be shown and details of the drive explained.

Separate solicitations of the unions, taverns, industries and certain other groups have been arranged. The residential drive will cover all other persons.

No difficulty is anticipated in meeting the quota in Gladstone for on a per capita basis the amount is only $1.40. If local contributors will increase the amount of their last year's contribution by ten per cent it will be sufficient to meet the quota.

In instances where the contribution is made through payroll deduction, solicitors will request the housewife or others in the home to take out at least one membership in their own name.

On March 1

Gladstone's quota of the $37,900 Red Cross War Fund to be raised in a drive that starts March 1 is set at $6,800. L. J. Jacobs, president of the county chapter has been advised by George Lindenthal, drive chairman.

Plans for the Gladstone drive are now being mapped by a committee composed of J. A. Sturgeon, John Vogt and Mrs. M. J. Neveaux.

Lt. Sherman Sword Tells Of Islands

An interesting letter has been received by the J. A. LaFramboise family from Lt. Sherman Sword, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sword, city, who is now stationed in the Philippines.

Lt. Sword's missive, in part: "Christmas in the Philippines wasn't exactly what we all like Christmas to be. I attended a beautiful mass, sung in a native chapel, on Christmas Eve. But we were forced to work throughout Christmas Day. Flying all day dropping supplies to fighting troops who looked to us for food and ammunition, made our little outfit feel like a collective Santa Claus.

"The Philippines are very interesting but will require much reconstruction after the war. This particular island is principally agricultural, rice, corn and sweet potatoes being the principal products. Their farms are beautiful from the air and it is surprising to see the amount of land under cultivation. They have limited automotive transportation (none now) and the caribou or water buffalo is the principal beast of burden.

"Their educational system, however, is known as the best in the Far East, having been set up by American standards. Interesting is the fact that in the schoolroom only English is allowed to be spoken, while on the school grounds, only Tagalog, or native Filipino is allowed.

"I have learned to get along very well with the Filipinos by telling them that my home is in Michigan. To them, Michigan is the home of Frank Murphy, who is loved by them as their greatest governor. He is their shining example of real democracy at its best."

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Devet and son were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter of Garden, Sunday.

Using a training device closely resembling a big twin-motored flying boat, the Navy presents bomber trainees with real flight conditions, and has them use real flight controls and instruments. Take-off, flight and landing problems are all encountered by the trainees and their reactions electrically recorded, so that the instructor can keep a check on all members of the crew.

Pledge Pupils To Take Better Care Of Shoes

Manistique shoe dealers are enlisting the aid of the local schools in an effort to impress upon school children that the preservation and the prolonging of the life of their shoes is a very important factor in our war effort.

Very shortly an impressive campaign in the care of shoes will be presented in every grade in schools throughout the city and simple maxims dealing with the problem will be taught the children.

In that way, local sponsors of the shoe conservation program, which is being waged on a nation wide scale, hope to cooperate with the OPA program which has for its objective the lightening of demands for children's shoes in order that the leather used for that purpose may, to a certain measure be diverted to other vital channels.

Late last week, Thomas Dufour, with the shoe and ready to wear division of the OPA office at Escanaba, conferred with Manistique shoe dealers acquainting them with the grave situation confronting manufacturers of shoes and asking their cooperation in putting on a shoe conservation campaign in the city.

"Parents, dealers and jobbers," he told the merchants, "continue to put pressure on various government agencies by demanding more and more shoes for children in the grade schools." To step up this production calls on the use of manpower vitally necessary for the carrying on of our war production. The demand, therefore, simply cannot be met.

Mr. Dufour told of a survey being made among shoe repairmen. The findings he summarized as follows:

(1). Children's shoes brought in for repairs have never been polished. Shoes polished weekly with an oil base polish will wear from 25 to 50 per cent longer than shoes never polished or cleaned.

(2). Children's shoes that were laced permanently. Broken down counters indicated that shoes were forced on and off will reduce the life of the shoes from 25 to 35 per cent and broken down counters are injurious to the feet of growing children.

(3). About 25 per cent of the shoes to be repaired were actually worn beyond repair because both the outer and inner sole were worn through and separated.

(4). Practically all of the shoes showed signs of having been wet at some time or another and they had been dried near intense heat as leathers were partly scorched, stiff and cracked, reducing wearing quality at least 25 per cent.

According to the survey, if every school child in the country took proper care of his or her shoes, the production demand of the present could be reduced almost 25 per cent.

Manistique merchants, anxious to do their share in putting the conservation program across, have appealed to Supt. A. F. Hall to help acquaint school children with the problem.

As a result, a form letter is being sent to teachers in Manistique grade schools requesting them to have the children make the following pledge:

"I promise to take better care of my shoes to help the war effort."

(1). "I will polish my shoes at least once a week with an oil base polish."

(2). "I will not put my shoes on or take them off without unlacing them to save the counters."

(3). "When my shoes are wet I will dry them slowly instead of ruining the leather by drying them near intense heat."

(4). "I will have my shoes repaired at the first sign of wear and tear."

WOMEN'S CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

Newspaper Theme Makes Pleasant Evening For Members

"It showeth our thutuff packkths a realistic wallop!" would undoubtedly be Bunny's description of Tuesday's performance of "Sob Stuff" that was presented by members of the drama committee to an audience of over one hundred members and guests of the Manistique Women's club. (Incidentally, Bunny was the liping stenographer on the Globe News.)

Adept characterizations by all members of the cast and superb direction by Miss Florence Panatoni accounted for the proclaimed success of this production.

The old cry of "the show must go on" proved a veritable fact in this instance, when a substitution for one of the leads because of illness, became a necessity the night before the final presentation. Mrs. Earl LeBrasseur took over as Amy Pendleton, the "sob sister" on the Globe News in the absence of Mrs. Ferdinand Gorsche. Other characters were the following:

Bunny, the liping stenographer—Mrs. Ralph Williams.
Drew Forbes, supervising editor—Mrs. H. P. Trieger.
Goldie Gittlesby, hard-boiled blackmailer—Mrs. Fridolf Danielson.

Mollie, a "hard" sophisticate—Mrs. Otto Beulov.

Minerva Peabody, gushing Wellfare worker—Mrs. Dallas Creeger.

The one-act farce by Evelyn Neuenburg, revolves around the escapades of Amy Pendleton and her cohort, Bunny, when they fabricate a false person and her tribulations for the Helping Hand column of the Globe News. Bunny impersonating the fake "Fanny Bunting" through realistic imitations of a fish and an ape, succeeds in discouraging Minerva Peabody of the National League of Child Welfare from adopting her as her own protegee.

Others responsible for the complete success of the play are Mrs. William Norton, who did the make-up and Mrs. Paul Dunn, who through her accumulation of stage properties, provided a very real newspaper office for the cast. Mrs. Howard Graff is the chairman of the drama committee and Mrs. Earl LeBrasseur is the vice-chairman.

Prior to the program of the drama committee, Miss Theresa Barker played two delightful xylophone solos; Liebesfreud—Fritz Kreisler and "Chatter-Box"—Julius S. Seredy. Mrs. Harrington accompanied her at the piano.

During the social hour which followed, two members of the play cast, Goldie and Molly, attired in their costumes, presided at the table that was appropriately decorated in honor of George Washington's birthday. Members of the hostess committee were: Mrs. Alvin Nelson, chairman, and the Mesdames Elsworth Curran, Ferdinand Gorsche, Elmer Lundstrom, T. R. Southard, Ernest Eckland, Carl Olsen and Lauritz Drevdahl.

The Want Ads Never Speak, But There Are Hundreds Who Answer Them Every Day

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE E-290: Harold A., aged 33, is personnel director of a large steel company. "I've been using your newspaper column for a long time," he told me during a long distance telephone conversation recently. "Furthermore, I realize that true personnel relations are not limited to the hours a man is on the job. I agree with your frequent statement that a worker is not at his best if he is worried over some domestic problem or the fear of impending divorce. His home life affects his morale and thus his efficiency. "I'd like to train a dozen of my assistants in this new psychiatric approach to personnel problems. "You have often mentioned various medico-psychological bulletins and rating scales in your column.

Will you please mail me a sample set of a dozen which you think would be most helpful to my personnel department. Then I shall ask you to send a dozen other sets to our key personnel men in branch factories throughout the country."

Diagnosis

It is very encouraging to see the far-sightedness of such modern executives as Harold A.

Appropos of Harold's reference to my statement that a worker cannot do his best when his mind is thinking backward to "unhappy" personality or domestic problems, may I recount a conversation I had with the head of a city dental society some time ago?

"Whenever I leave for my office after having quarreled with my wife, I am not up to par the rest of the day," this distinguished dental surgeon informed me.

"I feel grouchy and cannot muster the enthusiasm necessary to smile and be cordial to patients."

"Besides, I feel low in spirit and irritable with my assistants. But if I kiss my wife goodbye in the morning and am happy, I do much better dentistry and am far more pleasant in my social contacts."

Modern Personnel Strategy

A soldier who is not sure of his line of communications to the rear and hence must divert part of his attention to keeping watch on his flanks, is thus unable to concentrate so ardently on the enemy ahead.

He tends to oscillate back and forth, and thus does not irradiate the assurance or positiveness that are necessary for effective leadership and maximum output.

A man who is quarreling or who is worried because his wife two-times him or goes to taverns and drinks beer with other men, is thus anxious and relatively inattentive to his factory duties.

Or if he is concerned over an ill child or worried lest his wife not go through childbirth safely, or if he has an aching tooth or peptic ulcer, he is thus more brittle-tempered and easily upset.

When a man is happy and contented in his mind, he can concentrate more fully on his workday tasks. His personality is likewise more pleasing.

He tends to be more jolly and easier to get along with. He isn't quarrelsome. Proper personnel strategy, therefore, means getting into the home as this progressive newspaper does with helpful counsel and constructive bulletins or psychological rating scales so that conflicts and domestic problems are ironed out.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Runway Layout At Local Airport Is Approved By CAA

A proposed runway layout for the improvement of the Escanaba airport has been submitted to the Civilian Aeronautics Administration by Foth, Boyd, and Porath, of Green Bay, consulting engineers, who are making a master plan for the Escanaba airport, City Manager Art Aronson reported yesterday.

The runway layout has been approved by the CAA, with the statement that the improvements, contemplated for the postwar period, will provide excellent facilities for the local airport.

Following the completion of the master plan and its approval by the CAA, expansion and development of the airport by the City of Escanaba will be in accordance with the drawings of the master plan.

Zerbel Resigns At Iron River Delft

R. H. Zerbel, manager of the Delft theater in Iron River for nearly eight years, has resigned effective as soon as a successor can be selected and will leave for a month's visit in California where his wife is now visiting.

His future plans are unannounced.

Zerbel went to Iron River in May, 1937, from Menominee where he was manager of the Lloyd theater for three years.

Except for two years in 1928 to 1930 when he was in the household and commercial appliance business in Marquette, he has been affiliated with the theater business, starting in Marquette as manager of the Opera House, joining the Delft circuit, later, and managing theaters in lower and upper Michigan.

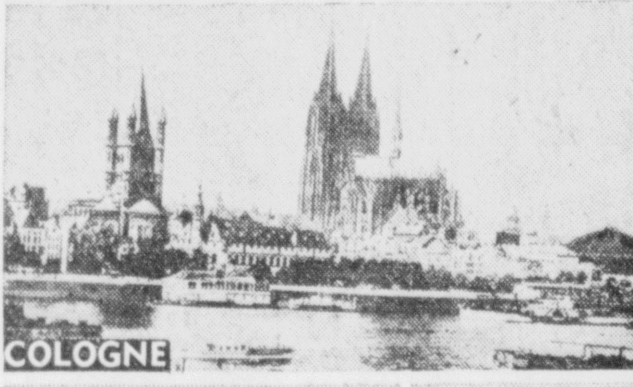

Only 80 to 90 per cent of veneer and plywood container needs are being met during 1944.

Union Orders Work Stoppage On County Roads For March 6

Claiming that the Delta county road commission has failed to comply with recommendations of the board of supervisors for recognition of the highway employees union, Arnold Alsten, business manager of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, Local 328, last night served notice on the road commission of a work stoppage for road crews, scheduled for 10 a. m. Tuesday, March 6.

In a letter to August Larson, chairman of the road commission, Alsten pointed out that a work stoppage originally announced for Dec. 22, 1944, was held back due to the assumption that proper consideration would eventually be forthcoming for the union, and that recognition would result.

Alsten referred to a paragraph of a resolution drafted by the labor relations committee of the county board which said: "Be it further resolved: That it is the sense of this board, that the Delta county road commission take such steps as may be necessary, by gentlemen's agreement or otherwise, to properly recognize the union of its employees and its representatives, and to maintain proper and friendly relations with its employees, to the end that there may be no interruption or harmful disturbance with, or to, the proper functioning of the commission in this county, and the performance of its obligations and public service to the citizens of this county."

The resolution was adopted at a Jan. 22 meeting of the county board.

Alsten further told Larson, the county road commission chairman, that:

"You have indicated that the commission has no intention of complying with said recommendation and inasmuch that this is definite we have no other recourse other than the above stated action."

Red Cross Drive In Townships Planned At Meet Wednesday

Over 50 persons attended the 1945 Red Cross township drive meeting held last night at the Sherman hotel. Problems concerning the solicitation of funds in the townships were discussed and quotas assigned for Delta county's 14 townships.

Appearing on the program were two veterans from the South Pacific who told of their experiences with the Red Cross in their respective areas and praised the work the organization is doing overseas for members of the armed services.

Capt. Dick Hammerschmidt, who spent almost three years in the Pacific area, told of the many things the Red Cross does and the services it provides for the soldiers and comfort. He urged everyone to give generously to the Red Cross in their drive for funds which begins March 1 because the Red Cross is doing things no other organization can do for the soldier.

Corporal Thorpe, Wells, another Delta county boy, praised the work of the Red Cross and explained to the audience the personal service he had received in an emergency. Both soldiers were generous in their praise.

Also on the program was Miss Sylvia Jacobson, St. Louis, Mo., a Red Cross field director working in the area. She outlined briefly the services performed by the Red Cross both at home and abroad.

A discussion of Delta County Chapter's budget for this year was presented by L. J. Jacobs, chapter president, who explained the services of the county chapter as well as the money budgeted to carry on the work.

A feature of the evening's program was a film depicting to Red Cross solicitors the procedure to follow in asking for contributions to the 1945 drive.

At the close of the meeting township quotas were assigned and all other details of the drive explained.

Some workers told of criticisms heard from soldiers who complain about the Red Cross and were advised by Jacobs to get the criticisms in writing and they will be checked for verification.

Capt. Hammerschmidt commented briefly on some of the criticisms by telling of how army, navy and Red Cross supplies and materials get mixed up on beachheads when a landing is in progress. The captain related that "sometimes you don't find your own bunk for three months after a landing is made." This is the basis for starting false rumors about the Red Cross, he stated.
